They Went a Fishing.

A fishing party consisting of August Stephan, Wm. Wendland and E. L. Herder, went to the Gaudalups last week, and report an all-around good time. They caught all the fish they could stow away, which is saying a good deal, for they all have good mouths for fish. "Fritz" though draws the line at eels, and won't eat them, even when fried in butter.

Aug. Stephan tells the following fish story: He says he baited his hook, and stuck his pole three feet deep in the ground, and left it for a short time, and when he returned, pole and line had both disappeared, and although they searched up and down the river no trace of either could be found. August is positive that it must have been at least a fifty pound fish which pulled that rod out of the ground.

Straight as a Die.

Washington achieved the greatest results by using the best means and material at his disposal.

Follow his precepts. When you need Hardware, Housefurnishings or Stoves, make the purchase here and there will be no complaints about quality—or prices either.

We are not selling goods below cost or anything like that. We ask and expect a reasonable profit. But we give extra good value in every line.

G. B. WELHAUSEN.

What stands between you and the ownership of any of the fine pieces of FURNITURE shown here? Really a very small amount money when you inquire into it matter.

The richness of design, the quality of the woods and other materials, the high grade of the workmanship and the beauty of the finish will lead you to suppose these were very expensive. They are some places, but not at G. B. WELHAUSEN'S, Shiner, Texas.
